Stop chasing the algorithm: Why Telegram out-earns bigger followings

Body text:

Hi [First Name],

Let's talk about the elephant in the room: algorithms.

A typical Instagram or X post reaches maybe 3% of your followers on a good day. Telegram messages? They regularly get 20%+ direct views. This is exactly why small, highly engaged Telegram channels consistently out-earn massive followings on other platforms.

This platform is a goldmine for creators:

- You own the line: There's no gatekeeper between you and your audience. Your message goes straight to their pocket. Direct delivery changes the game completely.
- High-intent attention: Subscribers actively choose to click into your channel, so their attention is highly focused. This translates to significantly higher revenue potential per subscriber.

- The Mindset Shift: You must shift from being a "content broadcaster" to a true business owner. Your number one job is to protect your audience's trust and prioritize giving value above all else.

Once you have built that trust, there are six main monetization pillars on Telegram:

1. Digital Products (courses, templates, ebooks)
2. Premium Access (private paid communities)
3. Sponsors (paid shoutouts and brand deals)
4. Affiliates (earning commissions on products you recommend)
5. Telegram Stars (in-app currency to lock exclusive content)
6. Ad Revenue Share (passive income directly from Telegram)

Your quick action step for today:

Write a one-sentence niche promise for your channel: "I help [who] solve [specific problem] to achieve [result]." Then look at the six pillars and choose the 2 you want to focus on first.

Hit reply and send me your niche promise along with your two chosen pillars!

Nailing this down now will give you massive clarity for the rest of this mini-course.

Tomorrow, I am sharing my strict 4-point readiness checklist to help you avoid the heartbreaking "5,000 subs, 0 sales" trap.

Monetization Readiness: 4 checks before you sell a thing

Body text:

Hi [First Name],

Imagine spending months growing your channel to 5,000 subscribers. You launch your first product, hit "send" on the announcement, and get absolutely nothing. Crickets.

Why does this "5,000 subs, 0 sales" trap happen so often? Visibility is rarely the problem on Telegram. Your messages are reaching their phones. The real issue is the relationship. You have to fix the bond before you make the pitch.

Here is my strict 4-point Monetization Readiness Checklist:

1. The 24-Hour View Ratio: Are people opening your messages shortly after you send them? A healthy channel sees a solid chunk of subscribers viewing posts within 24 hours. If views are flatlining, your hooks need work.

2. Interaction Health: Do subscribers use emoji reactions, vote in polls, leave comments? If your posts sit in total silence, pitching a paid product will only erode what little trust remains. Use these interactions as early warning signals.

3. The Value Deposit Balance: Think of your audience relationship like a bank account. Have you made enough "deposits" (free value, actionable tips) before trying a "withdrawal" (asking for a sale)? If your channel is just promotional links, your balance is overdrawn.

4. Niche Authority Clarity: Does your audience know exactly what you're an expert in? If you post about fitness Monday, crypto Tuesday, and personal finance Wednesday, nobody will buy your marketing course Thursday.

If you sell before these four elements are dialed in, you will annoy subscribers and cause them to mute or leave.

Your quick action step for today:

Score your channel from 1 to 5 on each criterion. If you score 4+ across the board, your audience is primed. If under 4 on any, commit to two full weeks of pure value posts before selling.

Hit reply with your scores! Which area needs the most work?

Tomorrow, I'm showing you how to build a cross-platform growth funnel that turns casual scrollers into high-intent Telegram subscribers.

From scrollers to subscribers: Build your Telegram growth funnel

Body text:

Hi [First Name],

Did you know that creators who actively cross-promote their Telegram links grow 3 to 5 times faster than those relying on in-app discovery alone?

A harsh truth: Telegram isn't a discovery platform like TikTok or Instagram.

There's no algorithm pushing your content to millions of strangers.

You need to treat Telegram as a destination, use public platforms to grab attention, and your channel to capture and keep it.

This is how you build a growth funnel that turns scrollers into high-intent subscribers:

- The Lead-Magnet Funnel: Never just say "Join my Telegram." Tease a valuable freebie (checklist, template, short video) on your public platforms. Tell people they can download it free inside your channel. Pin this asset as the first thing new subscribers see.

- Track Everything: Create platform-specific invite links (one for Instagram, one for YouTube, one for X). This reveals exactly where your fastest growth comes from and lets you double down.
- Roll Out the Red Carpet: First impressions matter. Pin a "Start Here" welcome note explaining who you're and what subscribers will get from your channel.
- Spark Instant Interaction: Place a simple, engaging poll beneath your pinned welcome message. Getting a new subscriber to tap a button within 10 seconds of joining builds a micro-habit of interacting with your content.

When you combine public discovery with a private Telegram destination, you build an audience nobody can take away from you.

Your quick action step for today:

Decide on one simple lead magnet (a one-page PDF or exclusive audio note).

Generate a platform-specific invite link. Update your top social media bio: "Get my free [Lead Magnet] inside my private Telegram channel 📌 [Link]"

Hit reply and tell me what lead magnet you're going to offer!

Tomorrow, I am sharing The Telegram Post Blueprint, the exact system for formatting messages so they get read all the way through and drive action.

Format to be read: The Telegram post blueprint

Body text:

Hi [First Name],

Have you ever clicked into a Telegram channel and immediately backed out because you hit a massive, intimidating wall of text?

On Telegram, your posts sit right next to messages from your subscribers' closest friends and family.

If your content looks like a dense academic essay, it gets skipped instantly.

Scannable, easy-to-read posts are what build trust and keep people coming back.

I call it the Telegram Post Blueprint, exactly how to structure messages so they get read and drive action:

- The Perfect Structure: Start with a bold hook that grabs attention. Keep paragraphs to 1-2 sentences maximum. Break complex ideas into 3-5 bullet points. Use generous line spacing, and close with one single, clear Call To Action.

- Strategic Visual Cues: Use one or two relevant emojis to guide the reader's eye. Think of them as visual signals, not decoration. Emoji spam kills credibility fast.
- Humanize Your Brand: Drop an occasional short voice note sharing an unscripted thought. Use video circles to show your face and say hello. The more human you feel, the stronger the bond you build.
- Build Parasocial Trust: Keep your tone friendly, conversational, and predictable. Focus on "quick wins," those small, actionable tips subscribers can apply immediately to see a result.

When you format posts this way, you respect your reader's time. And when you respect their time, they reward you with their attention and their wallets.

Your quick action step for today:

Take your last channel post and rewrite it using this blueprint:

1. Add a bold, curiosity-driven hook at the very top.
2. Break the core message into 3 easy-to-read bullets.
3. Add generous spacing between paragraphs.
4. End with a single, clear CTA.

Hit reply and paste your reformatted post! I'd love to see how you applied the blueprint.

Tomorrow, it's finally time to talk about making money.

I'm showing you how to turn readers into buyers using premium communities, digital assets, and Telegram Stars.

Your first dollars: Premium communities, digital assets, and Stars

Body text:

Hi [First Name],

Imagine your subscribers reading a post, deciding to buy, and completing the entire checkout in under 10 seconds, all without ever leaving the app or filling out a clunky form.

On Telegram, this is reality.

Because your channel sits right next to personal messages from friends and family, softer, higher-trust pitches convert beautifully and friction is practically zero.

Three of the most effective ways to bring in your first dollars without sounding "salesy":

- Premium Communities

Your free channel teaches the "what" and the "why." Your paid community delivers the precise "how," exclusive access to you, and curated networking.

Keep pricing simple (one monthly tier, one discounted annual option) and automate everything with Telegram subscription bots so you never manually add or remove members.

- The Contextual Pitch for Digital Assets

Selling an ebook, template, or mini-course? Start with a hook, drop a massive piece of free value (a mini-lesson), and end with a low-friction CTA:

"My full template pack goes 10x deeper. Grab it here."

Teach first, then casually offer the premium upgrade.

- Telegram Stars

Lock premium posts, videos, or files behind a Star paywall. Users tap once to purchase using Apple Pay or Google Pay.

Zero commission on channel content earnings, and cashing out through Fragment is straightforward.

Perfect for impulse-priced micro-transactions.

When you remove friction from buying, your conversion rates skyrocket.

Your quick action step for today:

Design your first premium offer. Answer three questions:

1. What is your paid promise in one sentence?
2. What 3 core benefits do members get when they upgrade?
3. What is your starting price?

Then draft one contextual pitch post using yesterday's blueprint.

Hit reply and share your one-sentence paid promise!

Tomorrow, I'm showing you how to earn from sponsors and affiliates without triggering unsubscribes.

Sponsors + affiliates without churn: The value-first promo playbook

Body text:

Hi [First Name],

The fastest way to lose your audience's trust is pushing the wrong offer. We have all seen it: a channel you love suddenly starts spamming sketchy links or irrelevant product pitches. You instantly mute or leave.

There's a safe, profitable way to earn from sponsors and affiliates without triggering a mass exodus. The secret: teach first, then link.

This is how to integrate partnerships while keeping subscribers happy:

- Sponsorship Mechanics: Charge based on your actual views, not total subscriber count. Calculate your CPM (Cost Per Mille) by niche, and prepare a one-pager with your average 24-hour views, audience demographics, and pricing for potential partners.

- The Value-First Format: Write a high-value, educational post first. Drop your sponsor or affiliate link at the very end as the logical next step. Maintain an 80/20 ratio: 80% pure value posts, 20% promotional.

- The 24-48 Hour Rule: Leave sponsored posts up for 24-48 hours, then delete them. Your feed stays clean and premium, brands love the urgency, and subscribers never scroll through a graveyard of old ads.
- Strict Affiliate Selection: Only promote products with perfect niche relevance, proven conversion rates, and reliable payouts. Native Telegram affiliate programs via Mini Apps boost trust because users never leave the app to purchase.
- Passive Ad Revenue Share: Turn on Telegram's official program to earn passive income from privacy-friendly ads without hunting for sponsors yourself.

Your quick action step for today:

1. Check your channel settings for ad revenue sharing eligibility.
2. Calculate your base rate: (Average Views / 1,000) x Your Niche CPM.
3. List 3 highly aligned affiliate offers and outline one educational post to pair with a link.

Hit reply with your calculated base rate or a planned affiliate product!

Tomorrow is our final lesson: the 3 vital metrics that actually matter and your exact 90-day roadmap to a profitable channel.

Scale with data: Your 90-day roadmap to a profitable Telegram channel

Body text:

Hi [First Name],

We made it to the final day! You now know how to capture attention, format posts perfectly, build a primed audience, and launch high-converting offers.

But here is a hard truth: pilots don't fly blind, and neither should you. To turn those first dollars into a predictable, scalable income stream, you need to track a few vital metrics and systematically double down on your winners.

This is how you turn your channel into a well-oiled machine:

- The Only 3 Metrics That Matter (track weekly):

1. Link Click-Through Rate: Are people actually clicking your links?
2. Shares/Forwards: Your built-in viral loop. If people forward your posts, you grow for free.
3. Revenue per Post: How much does each promotional post actually generate?

- Build a Hybrid Calendar: Cycle between selling digital assets, dropping affiliate links, and inviting people to your premium community. Rotating your offers keeps them fresh and lifts conversions.
- Monthly Revenue Audit: Find your lowest-performing stream and cut it. Give your top performer more calendar space.
- Future-Proof Your Channel: Experiment with native Mini Apps, integrate the TON wallet for crypto payments, and use Stars reinvestment loops (reinvesting earned Stars into ads at a 30% discount) to compound growth.

Your 90-Day Rollout Plan:

First 30 days: Stabilize one income stream while keeping passive Ad Revenue Share turned on.

Month 2: Add a second stream using the Value-First Promo method.

Month 3: Drop what failed, automate checkouts, and focus on content creation and audience growth.

Your final action step:

1. Create a spreadsheet tracking Link CTR, Shares, and Revenue per Post weekly.
2. Draft a 30-day content calendar maintaining your 80/20 ratio.
3. Write your number one goal for the end of Month 3.

Hit reply with your 90-day goal!

Thank you for joining this 7-day course.

You have the blueprint. Now start building.

To your massive success!

Best regards,
